DHS Announces Permission for States to Accept Customer Scanned Documents

DHS Acting Secretary Chad F. Wolf sent letters to states informing them that states may now add the pre-submission of identity and lawful status source documents, through a secure electronic process, prior to an applicant's in-person DMV visit, and physical presentation of those same documents for authentication and verification by DMV personnel. The applicant is still required to physically present those same documents to DMV personnel for authentication and verification. Read the press release at dhs.gov.

Illegal Immigrants in Massachusetts City Won't Be Arrested If They Drive Without a License

Illegal immigrants in Cambridge, Massachusetts, won't be arrested for driving without a license, thanks to a new law. Under a law passed by the city, police officers are advised not to arrest illegal immigrants found driving without a license. Instead, they are told to issue the drivers summonses...Police had already been advised to follow this protocol for some time, but the council voted unanimously to make it a law, according to the Tuesday report. The law doesn't restrict police from arresting drivers if they have additional violations besides the lack of a driver's license. It does, however, keep police from asking if a driver is a legal citizen. Read more at washingtonexaminer.com.

Months Away From REAL ID Law Going Into Effect, Experts Say 'Get It Done Now' (Massachusetts)

Later this year, everyone in the state who uses a driver's license to fly will have to get a Real ID... "I would advise anyone who needs a Real ID who has not gotten one to this point to certainly think about doing so because we expect to get busier as the deadline approaches October 1st," said Mary Maguire, a spokesperson for Triple A Northeast. A MassDOT spokesperson says wait times at DMV registries are likely to get worse in the summer. Read more at boston25news.com.

New Hampshire DMV Launches New Hotline Focused on REAL ID

Change can be confusing, especially when it comes to something as personal as your license and identification. That's why the New Hampshire Division of Motor Vehicles has launched a new hotline to answer questions about REAL ID, a new form of driver's license or identification card that includes a star inside a gold circle in the upper right-hand corner to show that it meets federal regulations. NJ MVC Issuing Thousands of REAL ID Licenses a Week With Walk-In Hours (New Jersey)

Two weeks ago, the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commission launched a "no appointment needed, walk right in" Real ID driver's license program for drivers with licenses expiring within the next three months. The program, which runs from the 5th to the 20th of every month, is being hailed as a major success. MVC Chief Administrator Sue Fulton said while overall wait times have increased to get a Real ID at the MVC, "the response to the walk-in policy has been great and we've been able to manage and move people through pretty well." ICE Leader Says Green Light Law Hindering National Security (New York)

Matthew T. Albence, the acting director of the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement agency, lashed out at New York's Green Light Law during a news conference Thursday, saying it imperils public safety, endangers law enforcement officers and hinders federal agents from doing their jobs. Albence, who flew in from Washington, D.C., for the event at the Rensselaer County sheriff's office, was flanked by numerous federal, state and local law enforcement officials as he made an impassioned plea for Gov. Andrew M. Cuomo and state lawmakers to undo a new law that blocks federal immigration and border enforcement agencies from accessing the state's motor vehicle database. Trump Targets New York Again, This Time Over Car Exports

As part of a raft of restrictions announced this month, the Department of Homeland Security said vehicles with New York State titles would face delays before they could be exported. The shift came at the same time as a change that got much wider attention: The federal government also began barring New York residents from trusted traveler programs, such as Global Entry. Officials tied their actions to the state's passage of the Green Light Law, which allows undocumented immigrants to obtain driver's licenses and blocks federal agencies from gaining access to the state's motor vehicle databases. Customs officials said they needed that access to verify vehicles' ownership. Read more at nytimes.com.

RI RMV: Tesla Plate Has G2G (Rhode Island)

The Division of Motor Vehicles is recalling a vanity plate on a Tesla that says "FKGAS." Paul Grimaldi, a spokesman for the Department of Revenue, said Monday that the plate was issued by a DMV employee "who is new to the plate order process." DMV has now concluded that the plate involved "inappropriate language," so it's being recalled. The apparently vulgar reference to gasoline was on a car that is powered by electricity. REAL ID Rollout Picking up Speed Across State (Kentucky)

Kentucky's Real ID rollout is getting real, with six locations around the state churning out about 500 IDs per day, and perhaps no one is happier about that than Warren Circuit Court Clerk Brandi Duvall. Speaking at a Bowling Green Rotary Club meeting Wednesday, Duvall said she was giving "the very last Real ID speech I'll ever give" now that production of the licenses that comply with the federal Real ID Act passed in 2005 has been switched from circuit court clerk's offices like hers to the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet. A Man Was Awarded Over $150k After He Was Denied a License Plate That Read 'IM GOD' (Kentucky)

A judge has ordered the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet to pay more than $150,000 for the attorneys' fees of a man who was denied of his request for a license plate that read "IM GOD." Hart, who says he is an atheist, told CNN affiliate WXIX that he drove around Ohio with "IM GOD" on his plate for more than a decade. So when he moved to Kenton County, Kentucky, in 2016, he put in a request to keep the same license plate. But instead, transportation officials sent him a letter denying his request, saying his request was "not in good taste and would create the potential of distraction to other drivers and possibly confrontations," according to court documents. How Dickson County Clerk's Office Speeds up Driver License Renewals (Tennessee)

Cindy Jenkins said when she arrived at the Dickson Driver Services Center earlier this year, people were lined up around the room and sitting on the floor. She heard talk of a nearly four-hour wait to get her driver's license renewed...However, a man in line with her at the driver services center, located on West Christi Road in Dickson, told her about another option. Minutes later, Jenkins walked right up to the counter at Dickson County Clerk's Office satellite location. She filled out a sheet of paper and a short time later, her drivers license was renewed. Veterans Will Lose Plates Honoring Service If They Have Electric Cars; Some Lawmakers Looking to Change That (Illinois)

Some veterans are getting snubbed in Illinois...Thanks to a new state law, electric cars can no longer have specialty plates – like Blackhawks or Cubs plates, or even veteran plates...The rule is one consequence of a sweeping change to electric vehicle registrations. Drivers used to have an option – pay $17.50 a year to register EL plates for electric cars, or pay extra for vanity or specialty plates. Now, all electric car owners have to pay $251 for registration and have a generic electric vehicle plate. There are no more specialty plates at all for electric cars, even those honoring the military. Read more at chicago.cbslocal.com.

Don't Need a REAL ID? Reconsider Applying for One, Illinois Officials Say

While state of Illinois officials feel "cautiously optimistic" about making the Oct. 1 deadline for residents to get a Real ID, a Secretary of State's Office spokesman said the office encourages anyone who doesn't need the ID to reconsider applying for it. "If you have a passport or a military ID, you don't need a Real ID," said Dave Drucker, Secretary of State press secretary. Drucker said the state has issued more than 800,000 Real ID drivers licenses so far and continues to expand facility hours to meet the demand. Read more at nbcchicago.com.

REAL ID-Compliant Identification Required to Fly After Oct. 1, but No Need to Panic (Michigan)

Feb. 12 was a typical February day at the Michigan Secretary of State branch office in Pontiac – a little blustery with temperatures hovering around 25. People lined up outside waiting to get in for a variety of reasons...The Michigan Secretary of State's Office attributes some of the long lines to people upgrading their driver's licenses and state ID cards so that they'll be able to fly domestically when a federal deadline comes Oct. 1. Fewer than 50 percent of Michigan residents with driver's licenses or state IDs have upgraded to Real ID-compliant driver's licenses or state ID cards. But there's no need to panic. Two-Thirds of Highway Fatalities Due to Ejection Without

Seatbelt so Far in 2020 (South Dakota)

Since the beginning of 2020 there have been nine fatal accidents on South Dakota highways. Six of these fatalities resulted specifically from people not wearing their seatbelts, and being ejected out of their cars onto the road or surrounding terrain where they died...Report going back at least five years on the SDDPS website show often twice as many fatalities for people not wearing their seatbelts than from those wearing seatbelts. In 2013 there were 61 deaths without, 33 with. In 2014, 72 and 28. In 2015, 60 and 26. In 2016, 58 and 18; in 2017, 67 and 22; and in 2018, 61 and 28. Read more at capjournal.com.

What's a Passport Card, and Can It Replace a REAL ID? (California)

Here's why I don't have a Real ID California Driver's license: long lines at the DMV. Now, just like you, I have been told for a couple years that I need a Real ID driver's license or I won't be able to fly domestically once the Real ID Program kicks in on October first. But is that really the case? Turns out you don't need a Real ID Driver's license if you have the right documentation, starting with a passport. "I am not personally recommending that people bring their passport to the TSA checkpoint for domestic flights," says TSA's Lorie Dankers. "The risk of losing or damaging your passport is too great." Depending on Where You Live, Your DMV May Be Selling Your Personal Information

A Spotlight on America investigation found a surprising source taking your personal information and selling it: Departments of Motor Vehicles in states across the country. Depending on where you live, the information may be released to various government and law enforcement agencies involved in investigations or manufacturing recalls. But we discovered your data may be sold to businesses, private investigators and other entities you wouldn't expect...Schwartz, a senior staff attorney at EFF, says a federal law passed in 1994 was designed to stop this type of sale from happening without your consent. The Driver's Privacy Protection Act, also known as DPPA, was passed after the death of actress Rebecca Schaeffer, who was killed by an obsessed fan who used motor vehicle records to figure out where she lived. But Schwartz explained, the law hasn't solved the problem. Read more at wjla.com.

Driving Theory Test to Feature Video Clips Instead of Written Questions to Help Learners With Reading Difficulties and Disabilities (UK)

Video clips are to replace written scenarios in UK driving theory tests to make them more accessible, it has been confirmed. The Driver and Vehicle Standards Agency announced that, from 14 April, learners will be asked three questions after watching a driving clip of up to 30 seconds. Changes to the theory test were decided following the results of a study that found that learners with reading difficulties and disabilities felt more comfortable with video scenarios than written ones.
