SAVE Message for DMVs from DHS

For purposes of assessing compliance with the REAL ID Act, please note that there is no definite end to the period of authorized stay for Temporary Protected Status (TPS) beneficiaries who present a Form I-766, Employment Authorization Document (EAD) that contains a Category Code of A-12 or C-19 and a "Card Expires" date from the list below.

- * 07/05/2016
- * 07/22/2017
- * 11/02/2017
- * 01/05/2018

- * 09/09/2019
- * 01/02/2020
- * 01/05/2020
- * 03/24/2020

An EAD that meets the above description is valid documentary evidence of TPS required by the Real ID Act of 2005, Section 202(c)(2)(B)(vii) and is acceptable for REAL ID purposes. Although the SAVE response provides a designation end date for TPS, these individuals do not have a definite end to the period of authorized stay. Pursuant to Section 202(c)(2)(C)(ii) of the Real ID Act of 2005, a temporary driver's license or temporary identification card issued to individuals who have a pending or approved application for TPS "shall be valid only during the period of time of the applicant's authorized stay in the United States or, if there is no definite end to the period of authorized stay, a period of one year."

Please see the DHS REAL ID webpage for more information.

Marketing Push Picks up for Real ID Licenses in CT (Connecticut)

Connecticut has been issuing REAL ID endorsements on new and renewed IDs since 2011, and has now converted about 47 percent of the 2.6 million licenses in the state, said DMV Commissioner Sibongile Magubane. "We did almost 50 percent in the previous eight years, and now we have a year to do the rest," Magubane said. "What we're trying to avoid is that last-minute rush." She said the DMV will have to issue about 100,000 Real ID endorsements a month to get everyone updated before the effective date next year. Read more at middletownpress.com.

NJ Police Investigating After Someone Painted Their Own Crosswalk (New Jersey)

Police say a homemade crosswalk in a New Jersey neighborhood could be deadly to pedestrians. Union Township police are trying to find the person who spray-painted the wobbly lines at the intersection of Vauxhall Road and Brookside Drive. An officer spotted them on Thursday, which was the first day of school. Read more at delawareonline.com.

This Is New York's New License Plate. Here's When It Will Hit the Road.

It's official: New York's new license plate will include images from across the state, not just the New York City area. The new design, which the state will begin rolling out in April, features a blue-and-yellow color scheme on a white background. Along the bottom edge is the state's official motto — "EXCELSIOR," Latin for "ever upward" — with images of Niagara Falls, a mountain range, the Statue of Liberty, the New York City skyline and a Long Island lighthouse. Licence Plate Thieves Use Expired Plates to Cover Their Tracks (Ontario)

Thirty minutes after she arrived at work on Tuesday morning, a colleague approached to tell Carole Tremblay that the licence plate on her car was missing. She says she went outside to check and found that her front licence plate was gone, but there was still a plate on the back. Unsure of whether the plate fell off or was stolen, she filed a report with the police online. It wasn't until Tremblay went to ServiceOntario to get a replacement that she discovered the second problem. Read more at cbc.ca.

A new autonomous vehicle test facility is due to open in the Atlanta metro, positioning the southeast as a destination for the development of the emerging AV technology. The Curiosity Lab in Peachtree Corners, Ga., is set to open its 1.5-mile test track next week, complete with public streets, steep grades and even mature shade trees. The facility, owned by the city, sits within a 500-acre office park, is free to use and offers insurance coverage for companies using the test track. Read more at govtech.com.

Mississippi Drivers Now Can Make Appointments for Visits to the DMV (Mississippi)

Drivers tired of waiting for hours at the DMV in Mississippi now can make appointments...The new system allows people to make an appointment to renew a driver's license or an ID card. To make appointments, you have to go to DPS' website and click "Wait Anywhere Appointment" and select the location where you'd like to go. A screen will then come up asking you to enter your phone number. After entering your phone number, click "Driver License and ID Renewals." Read more at localmemphis.com.

End to Driver Responsibility Program Brings 1.4 Million Texans Back on the Road (Texas)

Critics called the Texas Driver Responsibility Program irresponsible. Beginning in 2003, the program levied a surcharge on people convicted of certain traffic violations. The surcharge had to be paid for three years. Opponents say the program caused more people to drive without a license in Texas. It has since been quietly taken off the books in Texas. ## Have Ride-Hailing Services Like Uber and Lyft Reduced Drunk Driving Arrests in Austin? (Texas)

Another weekend has passed, and for some people in Austin that meant tailgating at the UT-LSU game or heading to local bars. Many used ride-hailing services like Uber or Lyft to get home, presumably in an effort to avoid drinking and driving. Places like Rainey Street are often clogged at closing time with people looking for their rides. Read more at kut.org.

Indiana AG Stalls BMV Gender Change Rule on Driver's Licenses

Indiana's attorney general is stalling a measure that would allow people to change their gender on driver's licenses and IDs, according to the state's Bureau of Motor Vehicles. The bureau proposed a rule that would require either a birth certificate or a special state Department of Health form to change gender on licenses and IDs. It was slated to become effective in October. But attorney General Curtis Hill last week declined to sign off on the rule because the public wasn't notified sufficiently, BMV spokeswoman Susan Guyer told The Journal Gazette. ## SD Tallies 23 Fatal Summer Crashes, With Fatalities Down From Last Year (South Dakota)

Despite abnormal amounts of snow and rain making South Dakota's roads slicker than normal for much of this year, the state's number of highway fatalities to date in 2019 is significantly lower than last year's. Lee Axdahl, director of the South Dakota Office of Highway Safety, said Friday that highway fatalities for the year are currently down 40 percent from the same point in 2018, and while he attributes some of that to advertising and education efforts, there's no one factor that accounts entirely for that decrease. That percentage includes fatalities recorded on highways and all other roadways in South Dakota. Read more at mitchellrepublic.com.
