Maine Denies Census Bureau Request for Driver's License Data

Maine officials say they won't give driver's license and state identification card information, including citizenship status, to federal officials seeking to include it in the 2020 Census...Patty Morneault, the deputy secretary of state for the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, told census officials Maine doesn't provide bulk data that includes personally identifying information and lacks the capacity for the monthly reports requested. Morneault says the decision adhered to Maine law "and the sacred trust of the citizens of Maine." ### DMV Adds Information to Vehicle Registration Forms in Wake of Limo Crash That Killed 20 People in Schoharie Last Fall (New York)

The Department of Motor Vehicles is making changes to vehicle registration forms. This comes after a deadly limo crash in Schoharie that killed 20 people last fall. The new form is called the "MV 82." It now includes limos in the checklist under the "vehicle information" section. There is also a section title called "vehicle modifications." That section covers documentation needed for limos to operate in the state of New York. The additional questions expand the form from one sheet to four. This leaves county clerks concerned about the heightened workload they will have to face. ### State DMV Investigating Mavis Discount Tire After Schoharie Limo Crash Revelations

The state Department of Motor Vehicles has opened an investigation of the Mavis Discount Tire store in the wake of revelations tied to the limousine crash last year in Schoharie that claimed 20 lives. Investigators have known for months that the South Broadway store issued a DMV inspection sticker to the vehicle in May 2018 even though it wasn't authorized to inspect high-capacity stretch limousines. But last month, a former Mavis manager claimed that the shop didn't do planned brake work on the limo -- a potentially explosive development in the criminal case against limo company operator Nauman Hussain. Governor Says No to DMV Plan to Charge $15 Walk-In Fee (Rhode Island)

Rhode Island Gov. Gina Raimondo has rejected a plan by the Division of Motor Vehicles to charge drivers a $15 fee just to walk in the door of a DMV office. A spokesman for Raimondo said Friday that the Democratic governor would not be including the fee in her budget for next year. DMV officials later said the plan is dead. The agency said the $15 “in-person” customer service fee was aimed at cutting wait times by reducing the number of walk-ins and boosting the number of online transactions. With Deadline a Year Away, Arkansas Officials Encourage Residents to Get Real ID

Arkansans have less than a year to get a Real ID that will comply with an Act passed by Congress in 2005...“It requires each state to take several documents from individuals,” said Scott Hardin the communications director for the Arkansas Department of Finance and Administration. “All of this is to prove that these individuals are who they say they are.” Hardin says Congress gave states plenty of time to effectuate the Real ID. He said that Arkansas is one state that implemented these IDs well ahead of the deadline. Read more at ualpublicradio.org.

Atlanta Defends Its Rainbow Crosswalks as Symbols of Pride. Federal Highway Officials Say It Impacts Road Safety (Georgia)

Atlanta's dazzling rainbow crosswalks won't be repainted any time soon, the mayor said. The symbol of solidarity with the city's LGBTQ residents will remain, the office of Mayor Keisha Lance Bottoms announced, days before Atlanta's Pride festivities begin. "Much like glitter, the crosswalk is here to stay indefinitely," spokesman Michael Smith said in a statement to CNN. Read more at henryherald.com.

Kentucky Looks to Frankfort-Run Plan for All Driver's Licenses

Kentucky transportation officials hope to centralize all driver's license work in the state, ultimately removing the task from local circuit court clerks entirely. The push toward a statewide model similar to those in other states will be a focus of next year's General Assembly, said Matt Henderson, Kentucky's vehicle regulation commissioner. “My office, at this time, is in favor of assuming all issuance,” Henderson told a meeting of the Kentucky Association of Circuit Court Clerks. “There’s a lot of efficiencies there.” Read more at wdrb.com.

Passing a Stopped School Bus in South Carolina Could Land You in Prison

Thousands of dollars in fines and years in prison. That's the risk someone takes if they pass a stopped school bus. There are approximately 406 school buses on the roads in Horry County every day and transportation officials say sharing the roads is critical to saving lives. With more buses on the roads, this inevitably means frequent stops for those buses to load and unload. Read more at wpde.com.

Arlington DMV Select Office Lauded for Busting Fraudsters (Virginia)

That's the same message being put out by the Arlington office of Commissioner of Revenue, to those who try to pass off phony out-of-state vehicle titles for nefarious purposes. "Don't bring us fraudulent titles," Commissioner of Revenue Ingrid Morroy said. "We're going to catch you. My staff knows what to look for – the whole team is extremely sharp." Three members of that staff (Isaac Kateregga, Ahmad Abdalla and supervisor Michelle Neves) recently were honored by the Virginia Department of Motor Vehicles in Richmond. ### Scared of Long Lines? What the Secretary of State Is Doing to Meet Real ID Demand (Illinois)

If you blinked, you might have missed it. Recently, the Illinois Secretary of State's office opened up three suburban locations on days they typically would be closed to serve the throngs seeking REAL ID documents. Is there a repeat coming? Possibly, spokesman Dave Druker said, explaining the agency is experimenting with ways to meet the demand for REAL ID, an enhanced identification for air travelers mandated after 9/11. The number of drivers flocking to driver's license offices clutching copies of mortgages, electric bills and marriage certificates hasn't been lost on Secretary of State Jesse White, Druker said. "We hope to do more but there is a lot involved in scheduling," he noted, adding one issue is finding employees who can work on days off. Read more at dailyherald.com.

Illinois Drivers - Watch out for That Deer! Mating Season Is Here

Driving in Illinois during the fall season can get risky when the deer get frisky. IDOT is warning drivers to be extra cautious when on the roadway this fall season, as deer are becoming more active, especially in the early morning and evening hours...Officials say in 2018, there were 15,636 motor vehicle crashes involving deer in Illinois. Of these, a total of 14,998 resulted in damage to property or vehicles. Only 630 caused personal injuries. Eight of the crashes were fatal. Read more at newschannel20.com.

Indianapolis Airport to Hold Real ID Event (Indiana)

If your driver's license or state ID card does not have a star at the top, that means it is not a 'real ID' card. You now have less than a year to make sure your license is real ID compliant; otherwise, you will not be able to fly on a commercial flight in the United States. On Thursday and Friday, the Indianapolis International Airport is partnering with the BMV to host a real ID event to help people make sure their license, or other ID, complies with the new federal law. ## Teenage Distracted Driving Data From Study Released (Michigan)

The week of October 20 - 26th marks Teen Driver Safety Week, and researchers at MSU have released findings into teen driver statistics. Dr. Peter Savolainen of MSU says the study took place from 2011 and 2013 by tracking 3,400 drivers that were monitored using several instruments. "We literally have unparalleled information about what was happening both inside and outside the vehicle, and that's been a big advantage compared to traditional research where we know what happens leading up to these crash events based on police crash reports," Savolainen said. The Cincinnati Public Schools Board of Education can't control the flow of traffic or the shape of roads within the city, but with a unanimous Monday night vote, its members made a commitment to reducing pedestrian fatalities however they can. The board has a vested interest in "Vision Zero," the nationwide pedestrian-safety initiative its members voted to join. Its stated goal is to "eliminate all traffic fatalities and severe injuries" — both of which CPS students have experienced on their walks to school. Read more at wcpo.com.

State Starts Another Round of Amnesty For Drivers' Licenses (Ohio)

Over 340,000 people could get back on the roads legally — sometimes after many years of not being able to pay reinstatement fees. After a six-month pilot period that ended in July, the state is restarting a shortened amnesty program for Ohioans who've lost their drivers' licenses. Most are low-income Ohioans who've fallen behind in paying reinstatement fees and find they've piled up so high that they're unaffordable. Read more at statenews.org.

DOT Urges Real ID Registration Ahead of 2020 Deadline (Wisconsin)

The Wisconsin DOT and DMV recommend getting the REAL ID sooner rather than later. If you make the switch during your regular renewal period, there is no additional cost, and you'll avoid long lines when the deadline gets closer. "We're at the point now where there's less than one year before it happens so we want to make sure people are using that time to plan," Kristina Boardman, the Wisconsin DMV Administrator said. "It's gonna take a little bit of time to get your documents together and then come to the service center so we're encouraging people not to wait till the last minute." Read more at wqow.com.

Truck Driver Safety Exemptions Under Reconsideration After Plea From Humboldt Families, NDP (Alberta)

After meeting with the family members of some of the 16 people killed in the April 2018 Humboldt Broncos bus crash, Alberta Transportation Minister Ric McIver says he's reconsidering his ministry's decision to exempt some truckers and bus drivers from new licensing requirements...Previously, the NDP required the 6,800 Class 1 drivers who received their licences between the announcement of MELT and its implementation five months later to take these new, tougher tests. However, an exemption added by the UCP government on Sept. 24 exempted drivers with clean records — interpreted to mean that they have no demerits, violations or suspensions — from taking the new test. ### Impaired Driving Charges Dropped This Year Versus 2018 (Saskatchewan)

According to statistics released by city police, there are fewer impaired driving charges in Prince Albert this year versus last. For September’s monthly crime stats, there has been a nearly 21 per cent decrease in the number of impaired driving charges to date this year (96), compared to this time last year (121). Robyn Keays, President of Prince Albert’s MADD Chapter, said she thinks the introduction of tougher penalties last year has a lot to do with it. Read more at panow.com.

Auburn Woman Warns Other Drivers After Her License Plates Were Swapped With Stolen Ones (Washington)

An Auburn woman noticed right away that someone had stolen an emblem off the back of her car. However, it took her several more days to realize that someone had also taken her license plate and replaced it with a stolen one. "I immediately called the non-emergency line and he said, 'yeah, that's actually a stolen plate. Do not drive your car anywhere because you could get pulled over and pulled out at gunpoint,'" said Angie Larson. "My heart just dropped." Auburn police commander Mike Hirman agreed. If an officer pulled over what was believed to be a stolen vehicle, it could be a heightened police encounter and it could potentially be traumatic. Read more at king5.com.

State Transportation Commission to Review Report on Pay-By-Mile Tax (Washington)

The Washington Transportation Commission will review a report from a panel who studied a pay-by-mile system that could replace the gas tax. After reviewing the report Tuesday, the commission will vote on Dec. 17 whether it recommends switching to a pay-by-mile system. The recommendations will then be passed on to the Legislature to consider during its next session in January. The switch is being considered because the rise of more fuel-efficient and electric cars has hampered the state's ability to rely on the gas tax for the long term. Read more at kiro7.com.

National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to Update Auto Safety Ratings Next Year

The government's highway safety agency says it plans a significant update to its automobile crash test ratings next year, and it will look at including new technology to make roads safer. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says it will study new test procedures and updates to its star rating system for automobiles, as well as technology that will better protect pedestrians and bicyclists. The announcement comes a day before a road safety advocacy group planned a press conference to call on the agency to update the safety tests. Advocates for Highway and Auto Safety say the U.S. pioneered the ratings but they haven't kept pace with new technology and have fallen behind other countries. Read more at komonews.com.

National Teen Driver Safety Week to Begin Oct. 20

National Teen Driver Safety Week is Oct. 20-26. Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for teens 15-18 years of age in the United States, ahead of all other types of injury, disease, and violence. Inexperience and risk-taking behavior are factors that increase the crash risk for teens. "Parents can help protect their teens by talking with them about how to avoid risky driving behaviors," said Michael L. Prince, OHSP director. "Because of their lack of experience, teen drivers are at a greater risk of being killed or injured in a crash. That is why it is so important to start a conversation with teens and encourage safe driving practices." Read more at lntonline.com.

SUVs Are 28 Percent More Likely to Kill Other Drivers in a Crash, Which Is Somehow a Massive Improvement

If you're driving a car that's hit by another vehicle, a new study from the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety says you're 28 percent more likely to die if that vehicle is an SUV. That's not exactly great news, but considering SUVs used to be 132 percent more deadly than cars, it's a welcome improvement. The study looked at collisions from 1989 to 2016 involving 1- to 4-year-old vehicles. That 132 percent figure comes from the first studied period, from 1989 to 1992. By the period ending in 2016, the risk from "vehicle incompatibility" had been significantly reduced in SUVs. Read more at jalopnik.com.

New Report Raises Concern About Unfixed Safety Recalls at Major Car Dealerships

It's estimated that one in five cars on the road today has a safety recall that hasn't been fixed, rendering those vehicles unsafe.
