Helen’s Amazing Journey and Reaching the Top

10:15–11:45 am. . . . . Grand III

National Geographic Explorer Helen Thayer will share stories from her amazing journeys to illustrate goal setting, problem solving, planning, and overcoming difficult challenges. She is the first woman to travel alone to any of the world's Poles when she skied at age 50 to the Magnetic North Pole without dog sled, snowmobile, resupply, or support. She was the first woman to walk 4,000 miles across the Sahara from Morocco to the Nile River. In another world's first, at age 63, Helen walked 1,600 miles across the Gobi Desert. She uses her vast experience to convince young and old that all great triumphs are realized by total commitment to a goal, planning for success, and a determination to reach the top.

• Managing your Message through Social Media

8:30–10:00 am. . . . . Vashon
Social media is transforming the way government agencies communicate with the public. From the most mundane customer service alerts to the most extreme public safety crisis, social media is becoming the primary way our agencies report news directly to the people we serve. It is how goodwill is built on a daily basis. Join us to learn how the Washington State Patrol and Skagit County received national honors for their use of social media during an active shooter incident in a Washington mall. Hear how social media can be used to supplement or replace press releases for engaging reporters and the public. You’re sure to walk away with some great ideas on how your agency can better use social media.

• The ABCs of OCM

8:30–10:00 am. . . . .Grand Crescent
We’ve long heard that “the only constant is change,” but many of us are only now starting to recognize the tremendous power of using organizational change management (OCM) to actively help our employees successfully work through major changes. Effectively engaging your agency’s staff, partners, and stakeholders, and gaining their support for a new computer system or other major effort can make the difference between success and failure. Join us to learn what OCM is all about and how it can be used to bring staff together in supporting changes before they happen. Learn how good communication and training plans can help employees become advocates for change. Panelists will share OCM successes and lessons learned from their own system modernization experiences and will discuss the benefits of using OCM principles and tools in day-to-day operations.
